

Norman Dong Biography

Norman Dong is a Managing Director at FD Stonewater, a real estate brokerage, investment, development firm focusing on Federal, state, and commercial properties.

As the Former Commissioner of the Public Buildings Service for the U.S. General Services Administration, Mr. Dong led one of the largest and most diversified public real estate organizations in the world. Mr. Dong managed the nationwide asset management, design, construction, leasing, building management and disposal of approximately 374 million square feet of government-owned and leased space, accommodating over 1 million Federal workers, and covering all 50 states, six U.S. territories and the District of Columbia. Additionally, Mr. Dong oversaw an annual budget of approximately $10 billion and a workforce of almost 6,000.

Prior to joining GSA, Mr. Dong was Acting Controller at Office of Management and Budget (OMB), where he was responsible for all aspects of Federal financial management and Federal real property management. Mr. Dong also served as the Chief Financial Officer for the Federal Emergency Management Agency from 2008 – 2012.

In addition to his Federal experience, Mr. Dong also has worked at the state and local levels of government. In the District of Columbia, he held several positions, including Deputy Mayor for Operations and City Administrator. In Connecticut, he served as special assistant for finance and accounting in the Office of the State Comptroller.

Mr. Dong also has prior experience working in the private sector. In his role as Vice President at ACS State and Local Solutions, he managed several business units that provided operational and financial solutions for state and local government clients.

Mr. Dong is a Fellow of the National Academy of Public Administration. He serves on the Board of Directors of the National Federal Development Association, the Federal Real Property Association, and is a member of the Board of Trustees at the Edmund Burke School in Washington, DC.

He holds a Bachelor's degree from Yale University and a Master's degree from the Harvard University John F. Kennedy School of Government.